

Glove Box Door Damping Device

Abstract

A glove box damper device is disclosed having a cam rotationally moving against a spring to slow the descent of a glove box lid during opening. The glove box damper device is easy to install, has reduced costs over many previous damper devices and reduces breakage. The glove box damper is suitable for use with glove box lids having a sheet metal insert to meet automotive safety requirements.